Learning A-Z

The Reading Rope

Modified from Scarborough, H. S. (2001). Connecting early language and literacy to later reading (dis)abilities: Evidence, theory, and practice. In S. Neuman & D. Dickinson (Eds.), Handbook for research in early literacy. New York, NY: Guilford Press

As an educator, you know that reading is one of the most critical skills that students need to develop. That's why Learning A-Z is excited to invite you to our upcoming Zoom webinar on building strong reading skills.

Our International Academic Manager will guide you through the key components of reading, including phonological awareness, phonics, fluency, vocabulary, and comprehension. You will gain valuable insights into how to support learners, including struggling readers, in developing strong reading skills.

During the webinar, we'll share practical tips and strategies for incorporating these elements into your daily reading instruction. You'll leave with valuable tools to help your students become successful readers.
