Policy Making In Practice Workshop

Register Now & Save

Government Exchange would like to inform you the next virtual open course workshop on Policy Making in Practice will be delivered by our trainers alongside our distinguished speaker - directly to your computer, laptop or tablet on Monday 27th of January 2025.

Distinguished Speaker:

Lord Peter Lilley, Member of the House of Lords & former Shadow Chancellor of the Exchequer

Learners will develop practical skills in relation to the UK Parliamentary Process such as developing a policy project proposition and the challenges involved in creating new legislation. The session will analyse bodies such as the Office of the Parliamentary Counsel (OPC) that play a more practical role in the parliamentary process, and how legislation is drafted and presented to the different stakeholders. Learners will develop an understanding of a project's 'lifecycle', how to manage the development of a policy project, how to update and review policy implementation and the role of external influences.

Learning Outcomes

- Learn about the Policy Cycle, and how policy should be drafted, implemented and assessed
- Understand the role civil servants play in policy-making, and what best practice looks like
- Improve critical understanding of what qualities are important for policy making
- Gain insight into the challenges that new legislation often encounters
- Develop knowledge of how policy can be better implemented and updated
- Discuss the role that external influence have over policy-making
- Learn about policy drafting and the importance of clarity in policy objectives
- Receive case studies in common pitfalls in policy development, and explore how to avoid them
